Roach Treatment Procedure

Cockroaches can live happily in extreme heat and extreme cold, so weather is not a factor in attracting them into your home.

The following items will create conditions conducive to roach activity and should be corrected prior to roach treatment:

- Trash should be removed from your unit regularly.
- Food should be stored in closed containers.
- The unit should be kept in a clean condition.
  - Special attention should be give to the sanitation conditions of the kitchen and bathrooms.
- The sink base cabinets in the kitchen and bathrooms should be emptied and cleaned for service.
- When significant activity is present, all the cabinets in the kitchen and bathrooms should be emptied and cleaned.

Treatment will consist of a combination of gel and liquid chemical to any areas with roach activity.
